2008 Mitcham Estate Cellar Reserve Shiraz Cabernet

LAVINA·WINES

BRONZE MEDAL – 2010 New Zealand International Wine Show

ADELAIDE INDEPENDENT – Philip White, June 09 89 Points

This is a really good drink for 10 bucks. It'd be a really good drink for 15 or 20. It's chockers with hearty warm chocolate and prune, like a Haig's liqueur, and it's velvety and smooth and makes me feel good. It's a smart piece of blending, and has an atmosphere that reminds me of drinks had a long time ago.

Now this is a seriously innovative piece of blending. Chocolatey and lip smackingly smart in all areas. I know you can spend $20-30 a bottle getting a sophisticated blend as good as this with a big name on the front, but settle down and wrap your lips around this beauty. Cellar Reserve obviously applies to the fruit parcel selection & is right on the money. Jam packed with booming red berries, this has a palate which is soft yet elegantly supple and stoic. The Cabernet is as structurally important to the mix by providing some wonderful grip amongst the mix and adds a backbone to the ripe Shiraz.

Exceptional Value Red!
